

Programme

The NextEnergy Platform

Martin Graf
Energie Steiermark

Gerhard Gamperl
World Energy Council Austria

Reinhold Lang
Club of Rome Austria

Ivo Wakounig
Eindhoven University of Technology

Keynote

NextAccess – What Could It Mean?

Gudrun Senk
Wiener Linien

- Why our current understanding of transport and mobility is no longer sufficient
- How the concept of “Access” opens up new perspectives and opportunities for action
- What this could mean for companies in the energy sector

Talk 1

Emerging Transitions:

New Infrastructure in the Age of “Access”

- The energy-related “second reconstruction” of the existing building stock as a key challenge for living comfort, sustainability, and resilience
- Energy Hubs as innovative infrastructures for energy services, with implications for energy generation, grids, storage, and energy management
- Integrated mobility concepts supporting these transformations through enhanced connectivity and coordination across all modes of transport (modal split)

Speakers

Doris Österreich
Chair of Integrative Building Technology and Digital Construction Technologies, University of Stuttgart

Mathias Dangl
Energy & Sustainability, Bundesimmobiliengesellschaft (BIG)

Jan Cupal
VERBUND Corporate Innovation

Philipp Marinitsch
ibiola Mobility Solutions

Talk 2

Security, Resilience and Data Protection

Enabling the Transformations Associated with “Access”

- The importance of resilience in material and data flows throughout value chains
- Open participation and innovative decision-making processes in public administration, politics, and business
- The role of comprehensive risk management in addressing emerging digital threat scenarios

Speakers

Sonja Wogrin
Institute of Electricity Economics and Energy Innovation, Research Center for Energy Economics and Energy Analytics (ENERGETIC), Graz University of Technology

Thomas Reininger
Oesterreichische Nationalbank (OeNB)

Clemens Wagner-Bruschek
d-fine Austria

Franz Strempl
Energienetze Steiermark

Outlook

Werner Ressi
Energie Steiermark

Networking